
Road crew misspells STOP

Posted by Jeff Jones - 2008/06/13 20:04

You really can't even make stuff like this up. Somehow it's not suprising that this happened in California :)

STOCKTON, Calif. -- A road crew in Stockton doing repairs wants you to "SOTP."

Sacramento television station KCRA reported that, after putting a stop sign in, the crew came back to the road to paint the stop sign on the pavement. But they misspelled the word "stop," a Stockton resident said.

The misspelling was corrected on Wednesday, city officials said.

<http://www.clickondetroit.com/2008/0612/16585897.jpg>

Re:Road crew misspells STOP

Posted by Ryan Huizenga - 2008/06/14 10:38

how friggin stupid do u have to be....its ont that hadr to splel stop.....

Re:Road crew misspells STOP

Posted by wade vanbragt - 2008/06/23 19:43

Maybe they're meeting some bilingual requirement.

Re:Road crew misspells STOP

Posted by Kasey Wright - 2008/06/25 03:19

Damn SWAP crews hahahahaha
